

Tradition For Memorial Day

Memorial Day began in the 19th century as “Decoration Day,” when citizens were encouraged to decorate the graves of soldiers who’d died in the Civil War. After World War I, Decoration Day expanded to include ceremonies honoring the dead in all of America’s wars.

Decoration Day officially became Memorial Day in 1967.

Wearing poppies is a popular Memorial Day tradition. The custom is generally credited to Moina Michael, a former teacher at the University of Georgia, who was working for the YMCA Overseas War Secretaries at the end of World War I.

She was inspired by reading the poem “In Flanders Fields,” by Canadian poet and doctor John McCrae. The poem’s opening lines read:

In Flanders Fields, the poppies blow Between the crosses, row on row . . .

During the Overseas War Secretaries’ annual conference held in New York City in 1918, shortly before the signing of the armistice that ended the war, grateful delegates gave Michael $10 in recognition of her help with the conference. She spent the money on 25 red silk poppies to hand out to participants (or she may have used the money on materials to make the poppies herself).

The poppy became a national symbol of remembrance, and two years later the American Legion adopted it at its own conference.

Poppies have symbolized the day ever since.

Mother’s Day Has A History Of Love

The second Sunday in May was officially proclaimed “Mother’s Day” by President Woodrow Wilson in 1914, but it had a long history before then.

In the United States, Anna Reeves Jarvis organized Mother’s Work Day in the 19th century. Her goal was to heighten awareness of local sanitation issues in her home state of West Virginia. Julia Ward Howe, author of the lyrics to “The Battle Hymn of the Republic,” promoted a “Mother’s Day for Peace” in 1872.

In 1908, Anna Marie Jarvis (daughter of Anna Reeves Jarvis) organized a celebration of motherhood at her church in Grafton, West Virginia; more than 400 children and their mothers participated. After that, Jarvis proposed a national day of recognition for mothers. West Virginia recognized Mother’s Day first, in 1912.

Today Mother’s Day is a big business. Greeting cards, flowers, perfume, jewelry, and dining out are all a big part of how we express appreciation to the women who raised us.

Quotes

“The heart of a mother is a deep abyss at the bottom of which you will always find forgiveness.”

- Honoré de Balzac

“A mother’s arms are made of tenderness, and children sleep soundly in them.”

- Victor Hugo

Why We Go To The Drive-Through Window

When you're on the go, restaurant drive-throughs offer convenience (if not exactly elegant dining). Cincinnati-based Frisch's, owners and franchiser of 120 Big Boy Restaurants, researched drive-through sales and came up with these facts:

Lunch is the most popular drive-through meal, with 56 percent of diners ordering lunch through the window, followed by dinner (27 percent) and breakfast (17 percent).

Millennials (one-third) prefer the drive-through so they don't have to interact with other people. Overall, the other main reason given for using the drive-through aside from speed or convenience was not wanting to park and walk inside (42 percent). About 39 percent of customers eat in their car, but 25 percent of them feel sloppy about doing it.

Keep Your Teeth In Good Health

Diet and exercise are important to good health, but so is taking care of your teeth. Remember these tips from the American Dental Association to maintain good dental health:

- ★ Toothbrush. Use a brush with short bristles that's gentle on your gums. Replace your toothbrush when the bristles fray, or every four months, if not sooner. Store your brush standing up in open air, not lying down in a case.
- ★ Timing. Brush your teeth for two minutes at least twice a day. Wait 30 minutes or so after eating before you brush.
- ★ Technique. Hold the brush at a 45-degree angle to your gums. Brush gently back and forth, using short strokes. Remember, keep brushing for two minutes.

Keep Your Home Safe To Prevent Injury

Your home might be your castle, but that doesn't mean you're necessarily safe there at all times. Follow this advice to protect yourself and your family from common household injuries, and even death:

- * Check your smoke detectors. Fire kills more than 2,900 people and injures 16,000 each year. And most of the fires break out when people are asleep. Install a smoke detector on each floor and outside each bedroom; change batteries at least twice a year.
- * Buy carbon monoxide detectors. Carbon monoxide is an odorless, colorless gas that can kill you or send you to the hospital. Most detectors cost between $40 and $170.
- * Invest in night-lights. It may sound basic, but a simple nightlight could prevent you from tumbling down the stairs and breaking something.
- * Other tidbits include: deadbolt locks, grab bars for the tub, rubber-suction bath mats, handrails on stairs, fire extinguishers, flashlights, a fire evacuation plan, and posting local emergency numbers on the refrigerator.

Wanna Go For A Walk?

If you have a dog, you know that going for a walk is part of the routine. Researchers at Care.com investigated just how walkable America is for dogs and their owners based on several factors, including the average length of dog walks in each city as reported by dog walkers, the availability and quality of dog parks, and the city's human walking score. The five most walkable cities?

1. San Francisco
2. Portland, Oregon
3. Seattle
4. Tampa
5. Washington, D.C.

And the five least walkable cities, according to the survey:

1. Dallas
2. Milwaukee
3. Nashville
4. Charlotte
5. Jacksonville

Help Cool Them Off!

Outdoor dogs need special attention in the summer. Hot days are hard on them. It helps to have a wading pool available or to let them play in the sprinkler. Keep water bowls full of fresh water.

Texting At The Wheel Isn't Going Away

Texting while driving is a dangerous activity, but drivers do it anyway, sometimes with tragic results. The Auto Insurance Center surveyed 2,060 drivers about their in-car texting behaviors and found out what drives them to text at the wheel:

Pressure to quickly reply	26 percent
Making plans	19 percent
Not wanting to delay responding	17 percent
Needing directions	15 percent

Also reported: boredom, pressure to respond to a work-related issue, and loneliness.

What are they texting? When asked for their most recent vehicular texts, respondents' most common answers were:

- Running late
- Minutes late
- Send me the address
- Coming home
- Heading home
- I'll call
- Months ago
- Red light
- Stuck in traffic
- Weeks ago

STAY ALIVE!
don't TXT & drive

Thanks For The Kind Words

"Love this place. Courteous, friendly and clean. Worth every penny you will spend on your car."

-Robin

A traffic cop pulled alongside a speeding car on the motorway. Glancing into the car, he was astounded to see that the young lady, who was driving, was knitting.

Realizing that she was oblivious to his flashing lights and siren, the policeman wound down his window, turned on his loudspeaker and yelled, 'PULL OVER!'

'NO', the young lady yelled back, 'IT'S A SCARF!'
